

"Our Nuclear Security graduates will enjoy a diverse experience of construction security aspects of Hinkley Point C, operations on Advance Gas Cooled reactor and Pressurised Water Reactor power stations, as well as cyber defence and response planning. It's an excellent foundation for a career in nuclear cyber and physical security through recognised qualifications and a development path that includes rare real-world experience of nuclear security."

Ben, Head of Security Service Delivery

What is Nuclear Services?

Over the next few years the UK's nuclear landscape will change significantly. Several of EDF's Advanced Gas-Cooled Reactors (AGR) will have moved into defueling and decommissioning, we'll see Hinkley Point C (HPC) start to generate and we hope to see the development of Sizewell C (SZC) and other new construction opportunities.

To prepare for this change, we've launched a new way of delivering technical support across Nuclear Operations, HPC and SZC: Nuclear Services. Nuclear Services is our technical centre of excellence, supporting our nuclear business from construction, to operations, to decommissioning; delivering integrated engineering solutions contributing to the UK's energy needs now and in the future.

What kind of placements will I complete?

Following an induction with graduates from all of our schemes in September, you'll head to your first placement, where you'll immediately start making an impact on our ambition to help Britain achieve Net Zero.

Our 15-month programme offers the chance to experience life within the Nuclear Security Team, the team is made up of the following areas:

- Policing and Operational Support
- Security Design
- Personal Security
- Information Security and Cyber
