° Extended Supply Prices for Extra High Voltage (EHV) customers depend on the characteristics of each customer, such as load, metering, network costs, etc. We are therefore unable to set fixed EHV prices for all customers. The prices shown are for indicative purposes only and do not include Distribution or Transmission charges (including for Distribution losses), which will be applied with the best view of forecast at time of pricing. Actual prices vary and we will seek to communicate them to the relevant customer in writing as soon as reasonably practicable after they take a supply of electricity on an Extended Supply basis, or, where we require any information about the customer in order to determine actual prices, as soon as reasonably practicable after we receive that information. EHV prices, and all associated distribution and transmission pass through costs, will be binding from the point the relevant customer takes a supply on an Extended Supply basis, regardless of when they are communicated.
