EDF Energy is committed to promoting and encouraging a culture of openness, integrity and accountability. It promotes good business practice and positive employee behaviour. This approach benefits the Company, its customers, its employees and its shareholders. All our employees should behave in a way that protects the interests of the Company, their colleagues and the environment.

EDF Energy supports the international commitments for the protection and defence of human rights of the United Nations and the International Labour Organization and reaffirms its adherence to the 10 principles of the Global Compact.

The Ethics & Business Conduct Policy sets out the standards for upholding ethical business practices and demonstrates our commitment to working with integrity, by being honest and transparent about our operations and performance. It establishes how appropriate and expected standards of behaviour will be set and communicated to enable EDF Energy to live its values, and is consistent with the EDF Group Code of Ethics.

EDF Energy employees are required at all times to act honestly and with integrity to safeguard the revenue, property and reputation of the Company and other Company assets for which they are responsible. Employees will be advised that they are expected to maintain the highest ethical standards and take appropriate action when others do not. The basic rule is that applicable legislation and regulations must be complied with.
